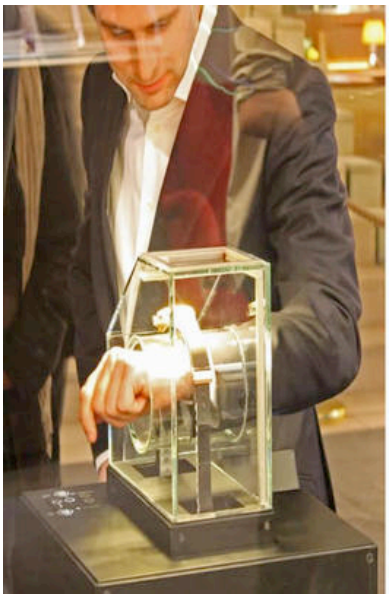
Test a Hublot watch on your wrist without wearing it

Goods No Responses »



If you want to buy yourself a Hublot watch but think it's too big for your wrist, then why not test it before rejecting it outright? At the Baselworld 2010, the watchmakers débuted their revolutionary "WatchTester" which was duly used 38,000 times. Crafted by artisan metalworker Xavier Dietlin, people simply need to slide their arm into the showcase and to try out the models without wearing them. You can check out four different sizes to pick from.
